SPEARFISH, S.D. (ASSOCIATED PRESS) - The Spearfish City Council has scheduled a special election Dec. 10 to determine the fate of a proposed annexation of land spanning more than a square mile.

The annexation of 658 acres would increase the town's size by 6 percent and bring an estimated 1,635 new residents to the community. But some residents in the annexation area who don't want to pay for city services submitted petitions to force a public vote.

The city council certified the petitions had the required 403 signatures and scheduled the vote for next month.
