SCHUYLER, Neb. (ASSOCIATED PRESS) - The Schuyler (SKY'-lur) school board has chosen Alliance's superintendent to lead its district in northeast Nebraska.

Dan Hoelsing will become Schuyler's superintendent on July 1. He has led the Alliance district in the Nebraska Panhandle since 2009.

Hoelsing says he sought the Schuyler job, so he could move closer to family, but he thinks it will be a good fit because the challenges in Schuyler are similar to the ones he faced in Alliance.

Schuyler school board president says Hoelsing impressed the board with his 33 years of experience.

Before Hoelsing moved to Alliance, he also led the Laurel, Coleridge, Newcastle and Wynot school districts and worked as superintendent for Laurel-Concord Public Schools and Ansley Public Schools.
