(CHADRON)-The Chadron School board will meet Monday evening at 5:30 p.m. in the school's central office board room for their regularly scheduled meeting. In addition to several awards, honors, and high fives, the board will participate in a round-table discussion with officer Aron Chrisman regarding the schools' safety plan. Unfinished business will include discussing, considering, and taking all necessary action on high school pod lighting proposals and an alley right-of-way agreement with the city of Chadron. New business will include the third reading of the vacancies, absences, and tardiness policy and first readings on the standing committees policy, the order of business policy, and the parliamentary procedure policy.

The board will also discuss and take action on a personnel-related 2013-2014 negotiated agreement and will receive reports from various school administrators, board committees and subcommittees, business manager Sara Taylor and school superintendent Caroline Winchester. A full agenda is available for viewing in the school's central office. The meeting is open to the public.
