(Chadron)-Although the last thing on people's minds at this time of year is Fur Trade Days, there is a group of people working hard to make sure that there is plenty of promotion taking place for next summer's event.

The Fur Trade Days web page has been updated to include more recent information about the annual celebration, and offers links to other area web pages. The new and improved page was launched on Friday, and although administrators admit there may be some minor typos, it is looking great. People are encouraged to go to the web page, www.furtradedays.com, and browse the many pages of events, and even submit pictures if they have any they would like to share.

The site is continuing to be updated with more information. People are also being invited to "like" the Fur Trade Days Facebook page, which also shares many pictures, including pictures of Fur Trade Days passed.
